

ABSTRACT

A food and drink conveying system includes a conveying path for circulating a plurality of containers each having food and drink, and a plurality of tables arranged along the conveying path. The food and drink conveying system also includes a conveying container which holds one of the containers and which is placed on the conveying path, and noticing <sup>devices</sup> ~~means~~ for letting an orderer know an arrival of his/her order proximate the orderer's table, so that the order can reliably be received by the customer, without any fear of the order being taken away on the way to the order's table by another person.